655	Agree		It should be child's home address and distance based intake
656	Disagree		The child's home address should be the place where they live the majority of the time. If a child lives miles away from the school but spends part of the week in the local vicinity visiting their other parent/carer this is not the 'home' address.
657	Disagree
658	Neutral		I also agree that it is useful to have a new definition of the address especially when children have more than one address.

919	Disagree		Disagree, as this will mean children from further afield will be travelling to the school. That will increase the number of people travelling by car and bus, reducing the current amount of pupils, the majority of which, currently walk to the schools. That will then, in turn, mean that those displaced children in the current catchment area, will be forced to travel by car and bus to other schools. These changes will, therefore, greatly increase traffic congestion and increase carbon emission' which all authorities are attempting to reduce. There is also the national policy of encouraging children to get active, in an attempt to reduce the increasing obesity epidemic. Walking to school is beneficial to children' health and removing the option to walk to school for many children is negative. Why does LPLT think they are exempt from actively supporting these national almost global policies? Not to ignore the fact that we moved to , paying inflated prices as we wanted our son to attend your excellent school. I urge you to re think changing the current admission policy.

It is my view that school applications should be made from the child's Primary Carers address only.

Surely the application address and the main address should match. I know the policy has provisions to remove applicants whose application is found to be fraudulent but this provision is ripe for being abused, if retained.

This would need to be carefully considered due to the potential for parents claiming residency for their child when really they do not live there. Though if one parent does live locally and within catchment then the child would be considered local and eligible for admission.

Again there is scope for abuse when it is only weekends that the child is with the other parent - they wouldn't be attending the school within that address catchment area during the period of time they are residing there.

The catchment area also drove the economy of the local area as it meant people would move to the area to access the schools. I am one of those families and my children are already looking forward to joining the school. However, the proposed changes appear to counteract the perception of the area, its catchment and directly moving Unicorn out of that equation as it is not deemed a feeder school despite being on the same road as the Langley schools doesn't make any sense. Another point is that I had moved to the area for Langley schools, not just for the heritage but also the fact that it's a single sex school which played a large part of our decision making progress. To now be told that despite going to a school which is literally next door to Langley trust and moving to the area within the catchment we potentially have to send our children elsewhere was quite disheartening. The impact on the environment is also of concern as my wife or I will now have to drive to the 'nearest' school IF WE ARE FORCED TO. . This new proposal is very disheartening. I have also seen Riddlesdown schools' approach in the recent weeks to revert to a model where local children can access local schools which is very warming. To see Langley Trust move away from this when families move to the area for the schools is extremely disappointing.

It's difficult to ascertain when members of the public/parents are being decisive when moving house to gain entry then move away when their child has a place. If it can be proved then they should be taken to task! How? I don't know I'm afraid! It's always been a problem and it's like rich v poor! What is rich or poor? When competition is so strong/high then maybe it's time to build another secondary school or stop building more houses!

Many people have spent a lot of time, money and effort to be in the proper catchment area for the Langley schools and now the criteria is being watered down so you could potentially have someone staying with a parent in Scotland for a few days and in London and still get into the Langley schools but who lives less than a less than 10 minute walk away could potentially not be given a space. This is totally unfair and unjustified.
